Choosing the right version If you've bought one of the newest versions of Photoshop or Illustrator, you should already have a good idea of which version you need for current design work. If not, you can determine whether you need Photoshop or Illustrator by considering some of these issues: * You typically use the tool to create artwork for print, so if you don't use it for print work, you need Illustrator. * If you use a service bureau, they usually provide the software in their network. In this case, you must use the software that is offered by the service bureau. You need Illustrator for web or print production but Photoshop for print-only or photography-only needs. * Illustrator is easier to use for web and print designs if you work primarily in that medium. Adobe offers many online web design courses and resources to teach you how to use it for web graphics. * Illustrator is easier to use for print graphics. Though Photoshop provides tools for print graphics, it's usually best to use Illustrator for print design because the tool offers many of the features Illustrator provides to produce effective print graphics. * Photoshop is limited to raster-based imaging. Illustrator is vector based. So if you plan to work primarily on raster-based graphics, you should use Photoshop. Illustrator is great for vector graphics. * The latest version of Illustrator is a big improvement over earlier versions. (I take the latest version of both Photoshop and Illustrator in my car to work

In this tutorial we are going to see how to edit a cityscape photograph in Adobe Photoshop Elements. After we finish editing our image we will use the new image in our Discord guild emojis. So, let's start editing! Step 1: Importing and Editing the Cityscape We will start with the original image. Click on the Open Image icon in the top-right corner to import our image. Step 2: Making Enhancements Once the image is open, we will select the Image and Adjustments palette to make basic adjustments. Click on Enhance and go to the Tone Tab and click on Curves. A graph should now be displayed in the bottom-left corner. I recommend using the two points to create a mid tone and highlights slider. By dragging the mid tone slider to the right the image will get brighter. Hover your mouse over the mid tone point and the graph will display the mid tone value when the mouse is over it. You can drag the highlights slider to the right as well to get brighter highlights. You can make adjustments to the mid tone and highlights graph by dragging the points or clicking on the dots to change the settings of the point. When you are done using the middle tone and highlights slider you can click the OK button or press the Enter key on your keyboard to set the settings. Step 3: Making Adjustments to Curves Now we will make use of the Curve tool. By clicking on the Curve tool it will appear in the toolbar as well as a white arrow icon (as shown in the image below). At this point it is essential that we zoom into the image. If we don't Zoom is Magnification display will appear in the top-right corner. Click on Zoom in to zoom into our image. It's a good idea to click on the Zoom In button to set the zoom in point. When your mouse is over the zoom in button, the zoom level will display in the bottom-left corner. By dragging the point where the mouse is over the zoom in button, the zoom level will display accordingly. Similarly, dragging the point where the cursor is outside the zoom area will decrease the level of zoom. I usually display the Zoom level at 150% and click on the - icon to decrease the zoom level. Now, Zoom in at whatever zoom level you prefer. Once you have 388ed7b0c7

Q: How to update a xml tag by value using XSLT I need to find all xml tags that have attribute value equal to 2 and replace the attribute value with 3. This works for basic tags such as but fails for and . The XSL looks like this: I then run this XSL on the original XML doc using 3 Is there a way to do this within XSL or should I use xquery?
